Chairman, Great Barrier Reef Foundation, International Science Advisory Committee

University of Queensland Vice Chancellor, Professor Paul Greenfield AO, has been Chairman of the Foundation's International Scientific Advisory Committee since January 2008.

The International Scientific Advisory Committee (ISAC), established in 1999, has advised both the Board and management of the Foundation on its research investments.

Before his appointment as Vice Chancellor, Professor Greenfield was University of Queensland Senior Deputy Vice-Chancellor from 2002 to 31 December 2007. Previously, he was Deputy Vice-Chancellor (2001), Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research) (1997-2000), Executive Dean of the Faculty of Engineering, Physical Sciences and Architecture and Pro-Vice-Chancellor (Physical Sciences and Engineering). He graduated with a Bachelor of Engineering, first-class honours in chemical engineering, from the University of New South Wales (UNSW).

In January 2006 Professor Greenfield was made an Officer in the General Division of the Order of Australia for service to science and engineering, particularly through research in the areas of chemical engineering, biotechnology, wastewater and environmental management, and to the tertiary education sector.

Professor Greenfield has extensive experience as a Board Director and has also consulted and worked widely with industry on a range of projects spanning biochemical engineering, wastewater treatment and waste and environmental management, as well as economic evaluation of projects (particularly in the biotechnology and environmental fields). His interests lie in biotechnology, environmental management and R & D management and commercialisation.

He is currently Chair of the Scientific Advisory Group of the South East Queensland Healthy Waterways Partnership, the Expert Panel on Purified Recycled Water Riversymposium Strategic Planning Committee, the Thies International Riverprize Committee and the International Water Centre. In 2008, he was appointed to the Defence Science and Technology Organisation (DSTO) Advisory Board representing the academic and research community.
